START GRADING ON WOLF ROAD

The first start on the actual paving of Wolf Road from the Will Cook County line north of Mokena to 143rd street was made Monday when Pronger Brothers of Blue Island who have the contract for paving five miles on this highway had a force of men and teams at work plowing alongside the road and getting ready to excavate for the road bed and to make cuts and fills.

A big plow and grader also have been put to work. It is planned to do all the grading work this winter if the weather permits and pour concrete the first thing in the spring. This highway will be twenty feet wide.

Cook county proposes to build 28 miles of paving on Wolf Road within two years, which means that the route from Kankakee to Wheeling will yet be a reality.

When Wolf Road is constructed in Cook county and partly constructed on route 51 from the Andres line there will only remain a short gap from there thru Mokena to the Cook County line and it is understood that this gap will not be allowed to remain but will be built. It is foolhardy to think that when concrete paving is laid on both sides of Mokena that a strip of a few miles would be allowed to remain unsurfaced on a road that will have as much travel as Lincoln Highway now has.

A year ago Wolf Road was not thought of and practically unknown, but now it is known as one of the main arteries of the state. A road meeting called by Peter Michelson at the Rock Island depot in Mokena on January 3rd of this year started the road movement in this section and the publicity that was given Wolf Road all over the state brought this highway forcibly to the attention of the powers that be in county and state with the result that this once historic Indian trail will be a concrete highway within the not distant future.

Mokena Pastor Surprised on 50th Anniversary

Rev. Mr. Roesner who has been in the ministry of the Lutheran church in various cities and states of the country, was pleasantly surprised Sunday night by the congregation of the Immanuel Lutheran church at Mokena when a surprise service and party was held at the church to honor the completion of fifty years of service.

Rev. Mr. Roesner was invited to attend special services at the church and upon his arrival found that a special place of honor had been provided for him before the altar and was then reminded of his fiftieth pastoral anniversary.

Rev. Mr. Peddersen of the Coopers Grove Lutheran church preached a special anniversary sermon. He also has served the ministry for a like period of years.

Following the services, the guests were entertained in the church parlors. A sumptuous luncheon was served by the ladies of the congregation. Rev. Mr. Roesner made very appropriate remarks in which he expressed his surprise at the honor conferred on him and thanked all who had a part in the celebration.

Rev. Mr. Roesner was presented with a monetary gift in gold as a memento of the occasion from his friends in Immanuel Lutheran congregation. He has been preaching in a number of Lutheran churches in New York City where he formerly held a charge and also in Texas. Rev. Mr. Roesner is in good health and is ever young in spirit even though the years are advancing.

His many friends congratulate him on his golden anniversary.

Orland Lions Club To Take In New Members Dec. 15

The Orland Park Lions Club will take in three new members at their meeting December 15th. The new members are Joseph Ruizies, Rev. Paul T. Sanders of the Worth-Orland Park Consolidated Parish and Wm. Semmler, editor of the News-Bulletin.

ROCK ISLAND PUTS SIGNALS IN OPERATION

The new $100,000 signal and train operating system of the Rock Island railroad between Joliet and Blue Island was put in service at Mokena Sunday morning. It is expected that the entire system will be in operation to Blue Island within a few weeks.

Trains are operated in the same direction on both tracks and are switched over from one track to another at Mokena directly from the depot which is equipped with tower switching mechanism.

The system is a wonderful one and is said to be fool proof. If an operator should by accident throw the wrong lever for switching or wrong signal all signals turn red, thus stopping the trains. Another safety device consists of an automatic train control. If a train is in a block and another follows too close the speed of the train is cut down to 8 miles an hour when the pony trucks of the engine come in contact with a ram set alongside the rails. If the block is not clear and the train keeps on going the next ram sets the air on the engine, bringing the train to a full stop.

There is an arrangement inside the depot which shows the location of trains along the road. There are a series of yellow lights. When a train gets inside of a block the particular light showing location of this train goes out.

Suburban trains are operated in the same direction on both tracks. In case a freight train is ahead of a passenger train, the latter is run around the freight, thus both trains are kept moving and no trains will be required to run into a siding to wait for another to pass. This saves much time in the operation of both freight and passenger trains. Three operators are now on duty at the Mokena depot working in eight hour shifts.

Steal Telephone From Booth

Telephone instruments in public pay station booths are the latest prey of day light robbers. Last Sunday morning between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock a telephone connected with a coin box in the public pay station booth in the Union station at Joliet was cut from the wall and stolen.

The girl at the news stand had just made change for a man who wished to use the phone. She heard the phone bell ring. Shortly afterward another man came and asked for change and came back hurriedly saying there was no telephone in the booth. Upon investigation it was found that the instrument and coin box had been stolen. The telephone company collectors had made collections Saturday so there was very little money in the coin box and the robbers did not realize much for their efforts.

CELEBRATE 20th WEDDING

Last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. John Walsh of Mokena celebrated their 20th wedding anniversary.

FOUR MILLIONS ASKED FOR OAK FOREST INFIRM.

Oak Forest, the Cook County Infirmary is so overcrowded with patients and inmates that additions to the present institution will have to be built soon. The institution now houses 4,027 inmates. This is 460 more than last year.

Superintendent Frank Veneck states that within a month Oak Forest will have to close its doors to the needy of the county.

The infirmary is so crowded now Mr. Veneck said, that he is installing cots in the corridors of the dormitories. The Cook County board recently purchased 400 more beds to take care of the emergency for the time being.

Mr. Veneck said he will ask for three additional buildings at the infirmary, or additions to the present buildings. The hospital needs 1,000 more beds, and the tubercular sanitarium requires 400 more beds, he said.

A bond issue of $4,000,000 will be needed for the additions mentioned.

Mrs. M. Hacker Aged 86, Dies

Mrs. Maria Hacker, mother of Mayor George J. Hacker of Mokena, died at the home of her son Philip in Mokena Wednesday afternoon at 1:15 o'clock at the age of 86 years. She is survived by three sons, Charles, George J., and Philip of Mokena, two daughters, Louisa Wilde and Minnie Hauck of Joliet, 11 grand children, four great grand children. Mrs. Hacker was a resident of Mokena for sixty years.

The funeral will take place from her home Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock and two o'clock at the St. John Evangelical church in Mokena. The Rev. W. J. Cramer will officiate. Burial will be in St. John Cemetery south of Mokena.

Mokena P. T. A. To Provide Ice Skating Rink

The Mokena P. T. A., is sponsor for a very comprehensive program of winter activities. One of the big features is a public skating rink for the young folks and school children of Mokena. The P. T. A. are making arrangements with the school board for the use of a portion of the new school grounds for the site of the skating rink. The village board will be asked to furnish water from the village mains to flood the rink when cold weather sets in. This will provide a good healthy winter sport and be an incentive to keep the young folks at home and give them the recreation which they desire.

The News-Bulletin heartily endorses this move of the P. T. A. In addition to this feature the P. T. A. is planning to hold a community Christmas party and have a community Christmas tree same as last year only on a bigger and better scale.

AUTOS COLLIDE; EIGHT MEN ARE INJURED

The Lincoln highway a mile east of New Lenox was the scene of a serious auto collision about 6 o'clock Monday morning. Two heavy autos collided, both cars being wrecked and eight men were injured, three seriously.

The men who suffered the serious injuries were from Michigan City, Indiana, and were on their way home, when their machine collided with a second car carrying a party of Chicago hunters. All were taken to the Silver Cross hospital at Joliet. The injured are:

Joseph Borane, Michigan City, right leg crushed and a broken nose. P. B. Farris, Michigan City, fractured thigh.

William Nasser, Michigan City, facial wounds and a battered nose. Abraham Saide, Michigan City, scalp wounds.

John Cinino, 122 North California avenue, Chicago, a musician, minor cuts and bruises.

William Williams, colored, 124 North California avenue, chauffeur, minor cuts and bruises.

Victor Ianello, 47 years old, 3560 Armitage avenue, sprained ankle.

John Culotta, 18 years old, 3560 Armitage avenue, minor cuts and bruises.

Borane is the father of Patrolman Michael Borane of the Joliet police force, and had been visiting his son at the latter's home, 601 North Eastern Avenue. Mr. Borane's right leg is so badly crushed that the doctors say amputation may be necessary. There is also a chance that he is suffering from internal injuries.

The accident occurred about one mile east of New Lenox. The car in which the Michigan City men were riding was owned and driven by Saide. Cinino was the owner of the other machine which was driven by Williams, his chauffeur.

Cinino and Williams were arrested after their injuries were treated and are being held at the county jail on a formal charge of disorderly conduct. Each side blames the other. The injured were removed to the hospital in the police ambulance.

NEWS-BULLETIN CHOSEN FOR VETTO HEATER ADVERTISING

The News-Bulletin has been given an eight weeks advertising contract on Vetto furnace heating stoves by L. J. Ludwig of Joliet, the first appearing on the back page of this issue. The following Mokena people have purchased the Vetto heater and are highly satisfied with it:

Peter Michelson, Tom Homering, Sr., Martie & Homering Ice Cream Parlor and Pool Room.

Improves Streets

August Hentsch has made some very noteworthy improvements on the streets of Mokena by filling in the ruts and chuck holes with screenings and draining off standing water alongside some of the streets. Mr. Hentsch deserves much credit for his good work.

Agitate New School For Mokena

Why A New School House
I think enough would be said if I answer "Because we need it".

However, since the subject is under debate, and I am given an opportunity of saying a few words on behalf of a new school house, I shall endeavor to point out a few facts as I see them.

When the farmer's tractor is worn out, or your furnace or may be your washing machine, likewise we realize the fact and cast them aside, and straightway replace them with new ones, for we can not continue our labors and livelihood without them. Sometimes we continue to use these articles regardless of the dangers, to any who may come in contact with them. To late then to be sorry.

Thus it is with our school house. It is not only at the point where it is dangerous for our children and their teachers, but it is inadequate.

When you look at the building, the definition is there. Much the same as the little child who decided how the elephant got its name.

Webster says inadequate is defined as insufficient, to effect the object. Unequal, incomplete, defective.

True, fifty or more years ago, the building was no doubt as far ahead of its time as it is behind today.

But it has served its purpose.

Why continue to use it?

The education and safety of our children are the greatest and most important problems with which we are vitally concerned.

The teachers are handicapped as are the children. No teacher should be compelled to care for more than one grade, much less three. True also our children are having a wonderful course in concentration, but do they concentrate?

They are constantly relaying work of the higher grades, which shows us their attention is detracted from their own grade work.

This is no discredit to the teacher, though a situation over which she has no control. Indeed, I wonder at the results considering lack of space equipment, and so forth.

Let us have an airy, light, warm, well ventilated, safe and all together up to date school house, where we can send our children and know that while there they are safe and in healthy, happy surroundings.

Let us make our standard high and build a school house to which we may point with pride and say I helped to build it.

Mrs. Martha L. Hall

[Editor's Note] Many requests have been received by the News-Bulletin to print the papers recently read at a debate for and against a new school for Mokena and the above is the first of a series of articles to be printed each week.

As Bad as That!

The BABY

Why do so many, many babies of to-day escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good.

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria.

The doctor often tells you to do just that; and always says Fletcher's. Other preparations may be just as pure, just as free from dangerous drugs, but why experiment? Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold!

Pretty Things that are Made at Home

THE calendar reminds us that we cannot afford to procrastinate in the matter of Christmas preparation. All the more reason to "do it now" if we are planning to make rather than buy. Speaking of gifts made at home, of all popular presents it would seem that lampshades head the list.

Here's "how to make" a shade which is good looking but not expensive. Buy a plain parchment shade, bind it with gold braid and decorate it with tiny gold paper seals. For a few pennies one can purchase a package of these little stickers or seals—enough to decorate several shades. It is the simplest, quickest process imaginable to paste these seals on the parchment background. After they are firmly placed, shellac the entire shade with transparent amber sealing wax paint. Prepare this by dissolving the sealing wax in denatured alcohol, letting it stand over night. When completed the effect is that of hand decoration done with gold bronze paint. The effectiveness of gilt crescent seals pasted on parchment is portrayed in the little lamp shown in the picture.

A lampshade, also stand or base if you so please to call it, woven of crepe paper rope makes a handsome gift. Weaving with this rope is not difficult as the foundational wires are bent into the desired shape, after which the crepe rope is handled just like in basketry. Materials for making such a lamp and shade may be obtained at any stationery or department store. The open spaces of the shade are filled in with parchment paper. Pictures cut from illustrative crepe paper or from any magazine may be pasted on the parchment. This scissors painting as it is called can scarcely be detected from handpainting. The entire lamp and shade must be gone over with a coat of sealing wax shellac.

The box in the picture portrays sealing-wax craft. A little wooden box prettily shaped may be bought at almost any ten-cent store. Cover the box with daubs of heated bronze-gold sealing wax, allowing it to flow from the end of the stick, leaving the top of the box untouched, as it is to be especially decorated. On this top paste a picture cut from a magazine or else stamp or sketch a flower or modernistic design.

The idea is to work this with various colored sticks of heated sealing wax, building up the design and modeling it with the aid of a thin palette knife. It adds greatly to the hand-someness of this work if one encrusts colorful glass jewels. One can get these multi-colored nailheads at any fancy work department. Use them in the center of the flowers or in connection with the conventional designs if such are chosen.

After the designing on the cover is completed fill in the uncovered spaces with daubs of the gold-bronze sealing wax.

MANY A FURRED VELVET COAT IS A SYMPHONY IN BROWN

IF YOU are feeling the urge to own a velvet coat, then you are fashion-wise. At the thought of a velvet wrap, one is prompted to vision black as the proper thing. To be sure, there is no criticism to be made if such be chosen, for the correctness and prestige of black velvet in the winter mode cannot be questioned. However, there is a competitor in the field—brown velvet for the coat, suit or ensemble, if you please, lavished with fur either in matching or blended fur.

It is a fact there is nothing newer or smarter on fashion's program than a "symphony in brown" for the winter costume. A definitely prominent brown shade this season is chestnut. The elegant afternoon coat of velvet in this picture is in this very beautiful color and it is richly trimmed with matching fur.

In order to insure a perfect blending or matching, furs of every sort are being wondrously dyed this season. In some instances, caracul is toned to accurately match the brown velvet it trims, likewise minkskin. The latter is exceedingly new and effective. Pointed brown furs are the "last word." These, with their sprinkling of white hairs all through the brown, make a handsome and novel appearance.

Arriving from Paris are ensembles with coats three-quarter length. To emphasize their smartness these coats boast the very new stole collars of luxurious brown fur matched to the velvet they trim. Very wide cuffs of the fur are used, because the wider the fur cuff the more fashionable.

Speaking of cuffs, some very sensational things are being done with them. One of the fetching new ideas which draws attention to the cuffs, is that on some of the latest velvet coats the only bit of fur that appears on the coat is that which trims the lower part of the sleeve. Huge muff cuffs are the newest thing. They give the impression sometimes of each arm thrust through a muff which extends up to or beyond the elbow.

Among unique fur cuffs are those strapped in the center with gilded kid belts with gold buckles, or of cloth matching the coat. Of course, these fancy strapped effects are used in connection with flat furs, as they yield most gracefully to this handling.

Regarding the coat in the picture, an outstanding style point which claims attention is that of the flare hemline, achieved by a set-on circular ruffle. Note also that the fur trims only at the front, which is a characteristic feature of many of the season's fur fashions.

ORLAND

The Lions Club met last Thursday night at the St. Michael's hall. A very fine chicken dinner was served by the ladies of St. Michael's church. A very pleasant meeting is reported.

The next Lions Club meeting will be held on December 15th. Plans are on foot to make this a very interesting and worth while. The local school board is to be invited and a special speaker also is to be procured for that night. From all indications this will be a very profitable meeting.

A. W. Schmaedeke, president of the Orland Park Lions Club will attend a Lions Club convention at Rockford, Illinois December first.

The Orland Park Lions Club is considering a plan to furnish the local public school with a new flag pole and flag.

Rev. and Mrs. Paul T. Sanders attended the opera in Chicago Monday night.

Clarence E. Beagley is doing electrical wiring at the Chas. Hahenlein place.

Orland Park has progressed in many ways and as the community is developing there is a need for a hall. There is no place now where a dance can be held or other large meeting. A suggestion has been made that a club be organized and funds raised for a good hall. It has been pointed out that the money invested could soon be earned by renting the hall and by giving dances and other affairs. Years ago Woodmen built a hall, but as the building is unsafe it is not being used any longer.

A large crowd attended the poultry buncio party sponsored by the Ladies Aid of Christ Lutheran church Nov. 22nd. Many Thanksgiving dinners were won.

Philip Steffen, Jr., and a number of other Orland Park sportsmen went on a hunting trip near Sparland, Illinois the past week, but as the Illinois river was high they did not secure much game.

Mrs. Philip Steffen, Jr., visited in Chicago Monday.

The movies at the Orland M. E. church are going over big. The big attraction next Friday night will be Jackie Coogan in "Johnnie Get Your Hair Cut."

Supervisor Chas. Doctor visited the office of the county superintendent in Chicago on highway business Monday.

Rev. Coats of Lemont, Rev. Kennedy of Palos Park, Rev. Delong and Rev. Povemire met with Rev. Sanders at his home in Orland Park Monday morning to discuss plans for intercommunity co-operation. A plan for an intercommunity training school was discussed also many problems confronting the southwest towns.

A plan for the exchange of pulpits for December 5 was worked out. At that time Rev. Coats will speak in Orland Park in the evening, Rev. Kennedy will speak in Worth, Rev. Delong in Lemont, and Rev. Sanders at Chicago Ridge.

Foresaw the Telephone

The possibility of telephone or wireless telegraph was evidently in the mind of Galileo, for in 1632 he referred to "the secret art" by which through the sympathy of magnetic needles men might converse at long distance.

New Ford Is

Arousing Curiosity

Word from the Ford factory is that there appears to be no immediate prospect of a sudden production start on the new model, although the insiders have been insisting positively that Nov. 15 would see the beginning of the big rush. Dealers in fair-sized groups are being shown the experimental cars and some of them are being allowed to drive it. Col. Lindbergh who was the guest of Henry and Edsel at the Ford airport this week, was allowed to drive it alone.

Observers Steered Away.
The Ford officials are positive in the assertion that the cars thus used are not production jobs. A number of them are visible from a distance in the vicinity of the Dearborn plant, but inspection of them by the curious public is discouraged. Guards at the plant keep everybody on the move. Visitors are ordered to park their cars promptly and to enter the building. When they come out they are invited to enter their cars again and drive away about their business. Loitering is frowned upon. Some try field glasses and other aids to long distance vision in order to satisfy their curiosity.

There are all sorts of rumors as to the daily output of the new model. It is believed that the remodeled plants may be able to begin with 2,000 cars a day. This would mean a full month to stock dealers with a complete line and another month to furnish them with cars for delivery. The presence of the Ford line in anything like its former quantity before the first of the year, does not seem likely unless Henry is able to perform some kind of miracle.

Tire Sizes Changed.
According to tire men from Ohio the Ford people last week sent a call to Akron summoning representatives of Goodyear, Firestone, Goodrich, Miller and Mason. These men, as the story has it, were informed that a change had been made in the tire size. Specifications up to last week called for 29x4.40 ballons, but now the tire factories are making quick changes in their molds to turn out 30x4.50 tubes and casings. The reason given was that the new Ford weighs 200 pounds-fifty pounds per wheel-more than the model T, despite the use of considerable aluminum in the chassis.

The alterations thus thrust upon the tire men will take at least two weeks to complete. Those at the Ford plants were informed that 200 a day would be the initial output with the maximum of 12,000 daily to be attained gradually by June 1 next.

The tire specification change, it is stated, will cost 25 cents a tire, or $1 per car.

AIR FIXED NITRATE FERTILIZERS ARE NOW SHIPPED TO FAR LANDS

Made At Niagara Falls And Warners, N. J., For Shipment To Japan And Java

Nitrogen from the air—thousands of tons of it—are being manufactured and turned into fertilizers, right here in the United States.

With all the controversy about making cheap fertilizers at Muscle Shoals, one might conclude that this is a highly questionable venture. It should be reassuring, therefore, to know that this project is thoroughly practicable and that we not only have a plant at Niagara Falls turning out great quantities of air nitrates fixed by the cyanamid process, but that this nitrate material is combined with phosphoric acid at Warners, New Jersey, to fertilizers is able to sell abroad without any help from protective tariffs because of the low original cost of the product and because of the large savings in freight and handling due to the concentrated nature of the product.

Even more important to the American fertilizer consumer is the fact that this is the same company—the American Cyanamid Company—which last winter came forward with the offer to take the cyanamid plant at Muscle Shoals—the same plant, incidentally, which this company erected for the Government during the war—and operate it, to-make an extraordinarily high grade fertilizer. This product is ammonium phosphate, containing 13 per cent ammonia and 48 per cent phosphoric acid—about four times the strength of ordinary fertilizer.

Strange as it may seem, nearly all of this high grade fertilizer is being shipped out of the country. Japan has been getting most of it, although Cuba, Porto Rico and Java have also received considerable quantities. The amount exported last year was about 35,000 tons.

Present trade conditions make it preferable to ship this high grade concentrated product to distant lands, despite the fact that we use more fertilizer than any other nation.

It is important to the American fertilizer user to note that this American producer of cyanamid together with a phosphate plant they would themselves build, and thus give the American farmer the benefit of the same low costs and freight savings that they now give foreign farmers.

Furthermore they would agree to limit their profits to 8 per cent on the cost. All this was embodied in the Madden bill urged by Congressman Madden of Illinois last winter and to be re-introduced in Congress next session.

The American Farm Bureau Federation and other leading agricultural organizations have vigorously urged the acceptance of this offer by Congress. They are not at all misled by efforts made to minimize the importance of Muscle Shoals as a factor in getting really cheap fertilizer, and expect to get definite action on this long delayed legislation when Congress reassembles.

The 13 Month Year

January 1, 1928 falls on a Sunday. The next time our present New Year's Day comes on Sunday will be in 1933. So if the 13-month calendar is to go into effect in the easiest possible way, beginning the week exactly as at present, something must be done about it fairly soon, or we shall wait another 5 years. The idea of the 13 month calendar, which is strongly favored by the U. S. Weather Bureau, is that there will be 13 months of exactly 28 days each, necessitating an extra month, probably set in between June and July. There will be one day left over, and it is proposed to call this "Year Day" and make it a universal holiday between December 28 and January 1. All in favor, say aye!

L. C. Stephens, District Manager

Gov. Len Small has promised to call a special session of the Illinois legislature to provide a new primary law for the voters of the state; the promise came after the announcement that Judge Fisher, Cook county circuit court, had declared the newly enacted primary measure unconstitutional. The case will be carried to the state supreme court and should that body sustain the ruling of the Cook county jurist, the call for a special session will follow.

The Hurden Construction company, Springfield, has been given the contract by the state division of highways for the construction of a hard road in Kendall county, for $13,133.71. Other contracts which have been awarded are:

Route 89, section 124, Marshall county, pavement, Hartman-Clark brothers, Peoria, $90,590.10.

The state division of highways has awarded the following contracts:

Route 64, section 130B, DuPage county, bridge, to Ferguson Construction company, Rockford, $9,341.56.

Route 163, section 102, Crawford county, pavement, to D. E. Alumbaugh, Sullivan, Ind., $30,945.06.

Route 142, section 104, Marion-Fayette counties, pavement, to R. A. Baum, Paris, $188,775.84.

A delegation of county treasurers and clerks called on Governor Small recently to ask his aid in having the state tax commission certify railroad valuations to county clerks by December 15. The delegation was headed by County Treasurer Basil W. Ogg of Sangamon county, president of the state organization of treasurers, and included representatives from 15 counties.

State's attorneys may not legally employ special investigators without the consent of the county, and investigators so employed may not be paid from funds received as fines from prosecutions of violations of the prohibition act, Attorney Oscar E. Carlstrom has ruled. His opinion answered a query from the special state's attorney of McHenry county, acting in the office of State's Attorney Pouse, whose disappearance several weeks ago was connected with alleged activities of a "beer ring" in McHenry county, and the special state's attorney wished to know how these investigators were to be paid.

The Chicago Elevator Properties, Inc., has been granted authority by the Illinois Commerce commission to conduct two grain warehouses in Chicago under the provisions of the new grain act of the last session of the general assembly. One of the warehouses is located at One Hundred and Seventh and Muskegon streets and the other at One Hundred Second street and the Calumet river.

Hundreds of farmers over the state have been visiting the special clover-alfalfa-limestone train which was operated recently by the Wabash railroad and sponsored by the college of agriculture at the University of Illinois and the county farm bureaus. Specialists aboard the train were: Profs. C. M. Lindsley, F. W. Gault, J. C. Hackelman, W. J. Fraser and E. T. Robbins, and J. H. Bigger of the Illinois natural history survey.

Farmers in Illinois selling cream are receiving fairer tests for butterfat content than they did a year ago, according to a comparison of cream station inspection records for October of this year and last. During October, 1926, of the 78 cream-buying stations checked for accuracy in tests, 20 or almost one out of every four were operating illegally. Last month's records, as reported to S. J. Standard, director of agriculture, by Walter R. Kinzey, recently appointed superintendent of foods and dairies, show that 121 cream stations were subjected to inspection. Among them, 17, or about 14 per cent were found to be operating illegally. Records of other months, compared to the corresponding period in 1926 show similar improvement, the report states.

Attorney General Carlstrom has ruled that anyone attempting to escape, or abetting him to escape, is not a statutory offense under the Illinois laws. The opinion was handed down to the state's attorney of Logan county after he had submitted the case of a person under indictment for larceny; the accused had induced an inmate of the Lincoln Colony for the Feeble Minded to leave the institution. "Statutes on 'escape,'" said the attorney general, "apply to prisoners." Inmates of the Lincoln colony are not classed as prisoners.

Attorney General Carlstrom has given an opinion to the superintendent of prisons in which he holds that persons sentenced as habitual criminals are not eligible to parole under the provisions of the state parole law. The parole law, the opinion says, does not repeal the habitual act, because it only administers sentence, whereas the habitual criminal act fixed a sentence.

Dr. J. P. Kerr of Versailles was re-elected to the fifth term as president of the Illinois Association of Drainage and Levee districts at the annual meeting of the organization in the capitol city recently. He represented the drainage men of the Illinois valley at the flood control conference in Washington; he accompanied Governor Small's delegation of state officials.

Dr. E. B. Coolley, Danville, was elected president of the Illinois Tuberculosis association at the annual convention in Rockford recently. He succeeded Dr. J. P. Denby, of Carlinville, who has headed the association for the past two years. Other officers elected, are: Dr. H. N. Hedlin, Kewanee; Dr. E. S. Murphy, Dixon; Mrs. R. A. Carille, Anna; Dr. Imas B. Rice, Aurora.

Pouring of concrete is complete on State Bond Issue Route No. 39, the last of the hard roads included under the $60,000,000 bond issue. The highway will be thrown open to traffic as soon as the concrete has had time to cure. Highway No. 39 extends from Bloomington to Champaign-Urbana. It connects at Bloomington with Route No. 4, Chicago to East St. Louis; Route No. 9, Peoria to the Indiana state line, and Route No. 2, the longest hard road in the state, extending from the Wisconsin state line to Cairo. It also connects with Route No. 10, Springfield to the Indiana state line, and Route No. 25, Kankakee to Fair field.

NEW LAWS OF ILLINOIS

[This is a continuation of the list of bills that were passed by the Fifty-Fifth General Assembly and have received the signature of Governor Small, or have been allowed to become laws without his signature.]

House Bill 593 (Devine). Amends sections 1, 10 and 12 and the title of the Dower Act. When a deceased spouse dies testate, the surviving husband or wife shall be entitled, in addition to dower, to one-third of the personal estate of the deceased spouse if he or she left surviving a child or descendant of a child, or one-half of the personal estate if the deceased spouse left no child or descendant of a child. A provision in the will of a deceased spouse shall bar the right of the surviving spouse to the personal estate as previously mentioned and to dower, unless the surviving spouse renounces the provision of the will. In the event of such renunciation, if the deceased spouse left a child or descendant of a child, the surviving spouse may waive dower and take one-third of all the real and personal estate and if the deceased spouse left no child or descendant of a child, the surviving spouse may waive dower and take one-half of all the real and personal estate. The title is amended to read as follows: "An act concerning the rights in real and personal property accruing by reason of the marital relation."

House Bill 588 (Johnson, E. A. W.). Validates the proceedings relative to the $3,000,000 Lincoln park bond issue, provided by the voters at an election held for that purpose November 2, 1926, which proceedings complied with all the provisions of the statute except that through inadvertence, notice of election was not published for three successive days as provided by law.

House Bill 747 (Peppers). Amends section 4 of Article XVI of the military code. Changes name of Naval Reserve to Illinois Naval Militia, and increases salaries as follows: Non-commissioned officers of the first group from $2.75 to $4.75 per day; non-commissioned officers of the second group from $2.60 to $4.00 per day; non-commissioned officers of the third group from $2.25 to $4.25 per day. Privates, first class, are to receive $4.10 per day.

House Bill 630 (Schnackenberg). Amends sections 9 and 12 of the Revenue act of 1908. Provides that where acreage property has been subdivided into lots, and such subdivision placed on record in any county, the said lots shall be reassessed and placed upon the assessor's books in lieu of such acreage property as of the first day of April immediately following the date of recording of such subdivision.

House Bill 600 (Castle). Validates the authorization of city bonds where a majority of the voters voting upon the proposition have voted in favor thereof and said election was conducted in conformity with laws except that for armories for the National Guard or for the purposes of establishing landing fields for aircraft. Landing fields shall remain under control of park boards and shall not be used for storage or parking of aircraft.

House Bill 353 (Johnson, G. J.). Relates to the valuation of bonds and other evidences of debt, held by insurance companies and associations. Rules of such valuation are defined. Director of trade and commerce given full discretion in determining methods of calculating values according to such rules.

House Bill 610 (Hanley). Appropriates $10,500 to the department of public works and buildings for the purpose of acquiring the home and furnishings of Pierre Menard at Fort Gage in Randolph county as public property.

ECONOMICAL DISHES

A nice dish which will furnish a whole meal and is both tasty and attractive is:

Potatoes With Hamburger.—Arrange a layer of thinly sliced uncooked potatoes in the bottom of a well-greased baking dish, sprinkle with a little shredded onion, then add the seasoned hamburger, also uncooked. Cover with a can of tomato soup and bake in a moderate oven until the potatoes are tender.

In these days of wholesome canned foods it is not profitable for one to buy pumpkins for pies unless they can be had very cheaply. A can of pumpkin will make two pies, it is all ready to use, saves the time of preparation and cooking of the pumpkin and tastes almost as good. Cooking down pumpkin until it is almost dry and of a rich color makes it much better flavored. This may be done with the commercially canned pumpkin.

Stuffed Pork Tenderloin.—Split a pork tenderloin lengthwise, leaving the halves joined. Pound the meat until one-half inch thick, then spread with the following stuffing: One cupful of bread crumbs, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper, a sprig of minced parsley, a tablespoonful of chopped pickles, the same of chopped olives, a little lemon juice and a few minced capers. Mix with one-fourth of a cupful of sweet fat or butter and one beaten egg. Arrange the stuffing in the center and sew or tie the edges of the meat together, so that it will resemble a plump boned bird. Bake, basting until well browned.

Pumpkin Pie.—Fill a rich crust with the following: Take one cupful of pumpkin, two cupfuls of rich milk, a bit of salt, one-half cupful or less of sugar to suit the taste, a teaspoonful of ginger and a few drops of lemon extract, with two lightly beaten eggs.

Food That We Like

If there are lunchbaskets to be put up daily for school or for the man of the house, the following loaf will be good to prepare:

Jellied Veal.—Cook together one and one-half pounds of lean pork and a hock of veal with a bay leaf, pepper, onion, allspice and salt. Remove the indigestible portions of the meat and cut the meat into small pieces. Reheat with enough liquid to fill the mold to be used. Pour into the mold, adding a little lemon juice and more seasonings if needed; chopped olives or sweet peppers may be added if liked. Slice cold.

Melville Cookies.—Cream one cupful of butter and add one and one-half cupfuls of sugar gradually, then three eggs well beaten. Dissolve one-fourth teaspoonful of soda in a tablespoonful of hot water, add to the mixture with three-fourths of a teaspoonful of salt. Sift four teaspoonfuls of baking powder with three and one-half cupfuls of flour, add one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one cupful of nuts, the juice and grated rind of an orange and three-fourths of a cupful of raisins. Mix the nuts and raisins with some of the flour and beat all together until well blended. Bake on a buttered baking sheet, dropping by spoonfuls about one inch apart. These will keep some time if stored in a cool place.

Potato Salad.—Cook potatoes in their jackets to have a good flavored potato. Peel them and cut into dice. Dice one good-sized cucumber after peeling, add a cupful of the tender stalks of celery. Cut three hard-cooked eggs into eighths. Mix all together with a bit of shredded onion or a tablespoonful of onion juice adding a little French dressing and later when serving add a thick boiled dressing of a mayonnaise. With plenty of salt and a dash of cayenne the salad should stand in the dressing for two or three hours to become seasoned.

St. James Pudding.—Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add one-half cupful of molasses, one-half cupful of milk, one and two-thirds cupfuls of flour, one-half teaspoonful of soda, a little salt and one-half teaspoonful each of cloves, allspice, nutmeg and one-half pound of dates cut into pieces. Steam in one-pound baking powder cans for two and one-half hours. Serve with an egg sauce or any desired pudding sauce.

Did you ever try peanuts in the stuffing for duck? The flavor, providing you like peanuts, is delicious. Mix three-fourths of a cupful of cracker crumbs, one-half cupful of chopped peanuts, one-half cupful of heavy cream, two tablespoonfuls of butter and a little scraped onion, salt and pepper and cayenne to taste.

ISAIAH TEACHES TRUE WORSHIP

LESSON TEXT—Isa. 1:1-20.
GOLDEN TEXT—O magnify the Lord with me and let us exalt his name together. I saw the Lord and he heard me and delivered me from all my fears.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Worshiping God.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Worship That Pleases God.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Worship That Pleases God.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Nature of True Worship.

Isaiah had a long ministry, beginning in the days of Uzziah and extending through the reign of Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah. For a history of the nation in this time see II Kings, chapters 15 to 20. Isaiah's visions present the redemptive purpose of God through the consummation of Messiah's kingdom. Chapter 1 is the title to the whole book. It contains the great arraignment of the people for their sins.

I. The Moral State of the People (vv. 2-4).

1. Filial ingratitude (v. 2).
The universe is summoned to hear the Lord's complaint against Judah and Israel for their base ingratitude.

2. Brutal stupidity (v. 3).
The ox and the ass are proverbially stupid, but Israel's stupidity exceeded theirs. Israel would not recognize His right as sovereign, nor author of mercies.

3. Habitual evil doers (v. 4).
They were not sinners in act merely, but in nature and heart were laden with iniquity. By heredity they passed their vices from generation to generation.

II. Their Consequent Miseries (vv. 5-9).

1. Their perplexity (v. 5).
Chastisement only hardened them. Their afflictions were followed by deeper and more heinous sins.

2. Their awful confusion (v. 6).
The calamity which befell them extended to all classes. No one was able to minister to their comfort.

3. Desolations in the country (vv. 7, 8).
Revolts from within and invasions from without left their country desolate. Physical ruin always follows moral and spiritual decadence.

4. A saved remnant assured (v. 9).
God's purposes cannot fail. A remnant was saved in Israel—a remnant shall be saved in the church.

III. Formal Worship Rebuked (vv. 10-15).

Their awful calamities were not due to the neglect of religious rites and ceremonies. They punctiliously observed the forms of religion while indulging in iniquitous practices.

1. God does not need sacrifices (v. 11).

Worship and service are not for God's benefit, but for that of the worshippers themselves.

2. God's attitude toward formal worship (vv. 12-14).

The very rites and ceremonies which God ordained for the purpose of helping men to approach Him become disgusting and irksome to Him.

3. God's refusal (v. 15).

Every act of worship while the heart and life are steeped with iniquity only incites the anger of the Holy One.

IV. An Amended Life God's Requirement (vv. 16-20).

Though the nation had so grievously sinned, their case was not hopeless. In order to enjoy that mercy there must be:

1. A cleansing.

"Wash you, make you clean." The washing by water symbolized the cleansing by the blood of the Son of God.

2. "Put away the evil of your doings."

There could be no cleansing while continuing in sin.

3. "Cease to do evil."

4. "Learn to do well" (v. 17).

One can only cease to do evil by learning to do well.

5. "Seek judgment."

One must not only be upright himself but should protest against the wrongdoing of others. Burdens should be removed from the oppressed. Justice should be done to the fatherless and the widows should be befriended.

6. Encouragement to come to God (v. 18).

Though their guilt was great and the judgment which befell them was awful, God's pardoning and cleansing grace were sufficient.

7. Conditional promise (v. 19).

This means that they could only enjoy good on God's terms.

8. Solemn warning (v. 20).

Rebellion against God brings ruin.

Religion

Trusting God with a sincere and open heart, ready to obey what He suggests, asking His guidance, and ready to take it, believing in Him and simply trusting life to Him—that is religion.—James Reid.

Cost of Discipleship

Oddities in World

Standardization and deterritorialization go on the world over. Last summer in Avignon in the south of France under the shadow of the Palace of the Popes, in a restaurant that I had found admirable for 30 years—I had, indeed, years ago eaten there in the company of Frederic Mistral, the Provençal poet—there, in that sacred and august shadow I was offered Norwegian anchovies with the hors d'oeuvres and peche Melba made with California peaches out of a tin.

The Mediterranean that swarms with real anchovies was only 50 miles away, and Norway is 700 or so—and heaven alone knows how far it is from California to Avignon, whilst in the spring whole hillsides of Provence are nacreous pink with peach blossoms.

But the peaches go to London; and Norwegians and Californians go to Avignon to eat their home products, and I come to New York to eat Mediterranean anchovies. It is perhaps not a mad world, but it seems a pretty queer one sometimes.—Ford Madox Ford in Harper's Magazine.

The Soul's Decay

A dying body is a calamity, but shall we therefore look with calmness upon a dying soul? His soul is dead who is without self-respect. The man who yields to the brute force of the majority, to the vicious power of ridicule, to the subtle strength of inertia, and turns his back to the ancient traditions of his group, that man's self-respect is deserting him; his soul is dying.—Dr. Norman Salter.

Personality

No term is so carelessly used as personality. One is accustomed to speak of this man or woman possessing a pleasing personality or a disagreeable personality, as if no individual possessed more than one. Occasionally, it is true, unusual individuals are described as having dual personalities. What is unusual in such cases is not the number of the personalities, but the fact that they are so divergent, as in the case of Doctor Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.—Baltimore Sun.

Don't Trust Your Butter To Luck

Market men and consumers are insisting on uniform color, now-a-days, and no real dairyman can afford to trust to luck any more. Keep your butter always that golden June shade, which brings top prices, by using Dandelion Butter color. All large creameries have used it for years. It meets all State and National Food Laws. It's harmless, tasteless and will not color Buttermilk. Large bottles cost only 35c at all drug and grocery stores.

Big Projects on Foot

for Harnessing Tides

The feasibility of harnessing the tides at certain places is so well understood that the French government has under way a project to develop a 5,000-horse power plant near Brest, writes Henry Williams, in the American Magazine.

England contemplates a $150,000,000 development in the Severn estuary; and the state of Maine has ratified a bill to develop tidal power in the bay of Fundy, to cost $100,000,000, which is expected annually to produce the equivalent of power from $10,000,000 worth of coal.

In the tide reservoir system as contemplated in the bay of Fundy and elsewhere, the gates are shut after the water has flowed in, and power is gained by letting the water flow out, operating turbine wheels meanwhile, as the tide recedes. Part of the power thus gained may be used to pump some of the basin water into higher reservoirs, to be used to operate other turbines as it flows back again.

From the open door two slit-like eyes in a face black with menace glittered over a rifle barrel held loosely, shoulder high. In undershirt and socks, his waist belted in bandages, stood Etienne Savanne, skinning knife dangling from a wrist thong, at the summons of his chief.

"Hand' up! Queek!" His eyes shifting in doubt from the savage features of Savanne to the man still kneeling, dazed, beside the body, Farrel demanded: "What's this? A hold-up?"

"It's all right, Etienne. Drop your gun," ordered Guthrie in a tired voice, getting to his feet. "There's no trouble here."

"Oh, yes, there is!" objected Rawdon, recovering his nerve. "What d'you mean, Major Guthrie, by secretin' a man wanted for murder? There's some real trouble ahead for you, as an accessory!"

"Shut up, Rawdon!" snapped Farrel. "I'm in command here." And the older man fumbled in an inside pocket and produced an oilskin envelope.

Numb with bitterness, Guthrie, aided by Etienne, carried the shell of Craig Galbraith into the bedroom littered with the debris of his unconscious frenzy.

"Come here, will you, Guthrie?" called Farrel, who held a photograph in his hand.

"Is that Laughing McDonald?"

Guthrie apathetically took the photograph and went to the lamp. It was the likeness of a large man in Canadian uniform, the patched face hopelessly disfigured by wounds. As he looked at the Canadian soldier, into the listless eyes of the man who had given his all for friendship, and in vain, crept a doubt—perplexity, then cold assurance. Garth handed the photograph to Joan Quarrier.

For an instant she examined the likeness, then with a note of triumph in her voice, returned it to Guthrie with: "It looks like him, but this man has no lobe on his left ear and his hair—look at the thin hair! His—our man's—is thick."

Guthrie nodded. "This is the man you are after, Farrel?"

"Yes, and he's the man in that room."

"You didn't tell me his real name." "His real name is Carmichael—Jack Carmichael. You ought to know, major; he must have been a friend of yours to take the chances with the law that you have, in hiding him."

"All right," said Guthrie coldly, "any chances I took, I'll answer for. Now look at this photograph. You see that man, besides losing half his face—poor devil—has no lobe on his left ear. That's clear, is it?"

"Yes, I noticed that."

"All right. Now look at his hair—is it thick or thin?"

"Thin."

"All right. Now in his description, what scars does he carry?"

Farrel read from the paper he took from the envelope in his pocket: "Scars: Little finger on right hand, missing; lobe of left ear, missing; etc.; shell wound on knee."

"Come in here. Taking a candle, Guthrie led the two policemen into the bedroom. "There's the little finger on both hands. Get that?" Joan heard Guthrie say. "Ears both whole, aren't they? See any scars on his knees?—No!"

"Now, Inspector Farrel, look at that head of hair!—Does that look thin to you?—No, quite the contrary, it couldn't be thicker. Now I'll ask you to notice this bayonet thrust. He got it in a raid in the Ypres salient—That's what gave him his first V. C. I was with him. Has your man a slash across the collar bone like this?—No!—Are you satisfied, Farrel?"

For a space, the trembling girl, thrilled—elated, listened for a reply. Then there came in the low voice of Farrel a reluctant "Yes."

The three men returned to the living room, victory in the eyes of the factor of Elkwan. After the toll, the anxiety, the despair, the memory of Craig Galbraith was clean of stain. Excusable as Guthrie had thought the act, in the light of circumstances, it was good to know he had not died a hunted man. Craig had not been the only Canadian to come home to his Calvary. Laughing McDonald, of the Ghost, was not wanted in Halifax.

CHAPTER XV

"Etienne," said Guthrie to the half-breed, who lingered at the gun-rack in the room, knife still hanging from wrist thong, hostile eyes on the policemen, "you help Miss Quarrier and Old Anne, while I show these gentlemen their beds. I'll be back directly."

With a backward glance at Joan, Rawdon reluctantly followed the others from the house.

In the trade-room Guthrie told the story of Craig Galbraith.

"He made the trench raid a work of art, Farrel, V. C. Croix de Guerre, Legion of Honor, he had them all. There wasn't a Hun headquarters that didn't know his name. They offered a king's ransom for him dead or alive."

"They warned me at Moose that it would be suicide for us to go to that schooner," replied the older man.

"It would have been, Farrel."

"What was he doin' with the Lewis guns?"

"I don't know. Of course, I thought he was the man wanted and figured that he didn't intend to be taken. But he was weird with a pistol. He'd shoot with either hand, from any angle. And his strength—you saw him and can judge."

"Well," said Farrel with a sigh, "I'm glad it turned out as it did. If the description had tallied with him, you were in bad for concealing him from us, although I understand how you felt—in bad with your people, too."

"Yes," said Guthrie, quietly, "it took some hard thinking to decide what to do when you heard him break loose."

"What to do?" demanded Rawdon with a sneer. "What could you do?"

Guthrie's glance in the direction of the speaker brought the blood to Rawdon's face.

"Shoot you through the head, Rawdon, if I had been the only one involved—or rather, the ears, to insure getting your brain."

"You would—would you!" Purpling with rage, the policeman straightened to his feet. "You were trying to hide a crook from the officers of the law—or thought you were—"

With a crash Guthrie's chair hit the floor behind him. "Mention that man over there again—and you'll never leave—"

"Hold on here!" Roughly pushing his subordinate behind him, Farrel faced the man whose mouth curled in contempt of the patent fear in the eyes of the younger policeman. "I won't have a fight here, major! You're nervous—get yourself in hand!"

"It's all right, Farrel. He's safe enough here," said Guthrie quietly, "but he'll have to watch his step. Understand, Rawdon?"

Turning his back on the victim of his over-raw nerves, Garth threw back a good-night to Inspector Farrel and returned to the watchers.

Guthrie crossed the white clearing, stung by regret at his loss of self-control, his deliberate humiliation of the man whose manner with Joan Quarrier at the supper table was eloquent of the gossip at Albany. But, harassed as he was by anxiety for the safety of Galbraith, at the veiled insult in the uncouth Rawdon's frank admiration of the girl, who staunchly simulated interest in his attentions, while her ears strained for the dreaded sounds which would betray them, Guthrie's command of himself had been too sorely taxed. The strain over, his raw nerves had sought the panacea offered. During his short stay at Elkwan, Constable Rawdon of the government police was not apt to press his attentions on Joan Quarrier.

CHAPTER XVI

What could be done, Etienne and Old Anne, under the dictions of the nurse, had done for the dead. In the morning, protected by a cache of logs, he would be buried in the snow until the spring would admit of the digging of a grave.

"You need air and change from this place," Garth said to Joan. "The stars are out; put on your coat and let's walk. I have much to say to you."

"It would be good. I think I'd like to walk on the river ice," she agreed. And with Shot as escort, they crossed the clearing.

"How low the stars seem, almost crowding down on us, as you told me that morning on our way to Albany."

"How long ago it seems—so much has happened," he said.

"To you, Mr. Exile—and to me," she answered cryptically.

"You never told me why you stayed at Albany," he began after a silence.

She did not meet his eyes, but looked far to the east where the moon, sliced in half, like a mammoth cheese, by the roof of Akimiski, bathed the indigo barrens with silver.

"Is it a secret?" he pressed.

"I was needed there."

"And now, because of my bringing you into this, you can't go back."

"They will gladly have me back—they need me."

"But so do I, Healer of Wounds, I need you. Won't you listen—believe what I say?" His voice broke with emotion he could not control.

She stopped. They had reached the river trail and were alone—out of sight of the post buildings.

"Please, I beg of you, never call me that again!"

"Why, I'm sorry—I didn't know," he faltered, puzzled by her mood. "It means so much to me—a badge of honor, an accolade."

"Yes, at first, but it has come to mean to me—she checked herself."

He waited, watching the light touch her sober face.

"It has come to mean to me," she went on, "something humiliating—hateful."

"Why, my dear child!" he gasped in astonishment. "Humiliating? I'm proud—so proud, to love the woman who has been a healer of wounds."

"Oh, but you don't understand—can't see! And how am I to tell you?"

"If, after what we've been through together," he said passionately, "if, knowing that you are all my world—all I have left to cling to, to fight for, you can't be frank with me—"

"You tell me that you care for me," she broke in bitterly, "then why is she there—in your room, where you can see her?—If you've forgotten—as you say."

He raised his mitten to his forehead as if dazed, then turned a face tense with candor. "Is she still—there?"

"Still there? Don't you know that the three likenesses are in your room, now?"

He smiled as one smiles at the caprice of a child. "It is so long since I'd noticed them, I had forgotten."

Then, dimly at first, in a moment he saw—"Healer of Wounds!" he murmured. "Oh, you think there's a scar, a wound unhealed—the memory of her, that I can't forget?" he cried. "Ethel! You think you're healing the wounds Ethel left—a substitute. Is that it?"

She would not meet his smiling eyes. "Long before I met you," he went on, "she had become a shadow. I had come to see her as she was—the shallowness, the hardness of her. Then there came sailing across the strait a girl with eyes that never wavered—"

With a swift movement he caught her.

With a heart all gold, and hair, he laughed at the anti-climax, "that the wind loved to play with. Like the soldier she was, she forgot self in the work at hand. With those clear eyes, saw the truth. And when I left her that night on the shore of the Albany—I loved her."

With a catch in the throat, Joan Quarrier lifted her face to the moonlight. The sensitive mouth quivered below clouded eyes, fiercely questioning.

"You cared for me, you say, but each morning you looked at the lovely creature you had lost—and felt—just a bit sorry for her, for yourself, eh, Major Guthrie?"

He hardly recognized the voice, so hoarse, so bitter was the note on which she finished.

Hopelessly he shook his head. As if to himself, he muttered in protest: "They were there with those of the family, untouched, because unthought of. I was away—hardly slept in the room after leaving you at Albany, up the coast, inland after Sound, on the island. Do you think I would have turned to you in my need—asked you to come up here—with all it meant—if I had not loved you?" he pleaded.

But in her overmastering pride, Joan Quarrier was obdurate.

"Let us walk," she said, mechanically, and started on.

They walked a mile up the river trail, and turning, faced the pulsing aurora. The stinging air had lured the color to her cheeks, the shadows left her somber eyes. They vied in naming the colors in the intermittent glow of the northern lights, identified stars, for the moment forgot themselves in the stimulation of keen air and leaping pulses.

As they neared the post, her moccasins slipped on the ice-hard trail. With a swift movement he caught her, felt for an instant the weight of her in his arms, straightened, still holding her; then, as her hood fell back and he caught the fragrance of her hair—crushed his lips to it. Slowly her dark head turned, and there on the ice of the Elkwan, he held her, trembling, meeting his wild mood with a revelation of tenderness—of passion, unguessed.

"Why, oh, why," he asked, "did you torture me so long?"

"Because, Oh, Lord of Elkwan and half of Akimiski," she bantered, "you tortured me with those photographs."

"Do you believe—that I forgot their existence?"

"Yes—but oh, I couldn't be second best—her substitute. I wanted to be first—wanted to be everything to you"

—all. And yet you needed me so—I knew it that night at Albany."

"That I loved you?"

"No, stupid, that you needed me."

"And that is why you stayed at Albany—because you thought I needed you?"

"No, prince of blindmen, because I—loved you." And she tenderly kissed the cicatrix which crossed his cheek.

"You made me love you the night you told me of the coming of Ninda, to Elkwan."

"And I made your brother hate me," he laughed.

"Have I atoned for his injuries to you?"

"I love him for those injuries. He didn't know how he helped. But you mustn't stand here in the cold with your hood off. You'll freeze your face!" Guthrie suddenly became serious.

"Not with you, hungry man!" she laughed.

"Good-night, oh much-needed lady," he said in the living room.

"Good-night, Sir Philip Sydney. All in a few hours I have seen your eyes cold as the ice out there—and I've seen them—well, as they look now, dearest man-with-the-scar," and she kissed him and went to her room.

The following morning, when the police dog-team had left for Seal Cove, the nervous Ungavas led by the protesting Shot drew the rude coffin of Craig Galbraith to the post cemetery. There, beside the snow-drifted cross marking Ninda's grave, they built a cache of logs over the rough box of spruce slabs, and against it, rested the spruce cross which would be set in the spring when the frost left the ground.

As Garth and Etienne crossed to the trade-house, the half-breed stopped, shading his eyes with a mitten.

"See something?"

"Ah-hah!"

"Can't be the police team coming back?"

"No, eet ees long team—seex dog, I think."

"From Albany—a packet from Cameron. I wonder what's happened."

Twenty minutes later Guthrie was opening the mail bag which the dog driver from Albany had handed him.

"As soon as Etienne rounds to," wrote Cameron, "you bring Miss Joan down the coast—she's needed. The company is locating a permanent post on the island in the summer, and want you to handle it. You have made a big stroke with Moose and Montreal, and if you care to stay in the trade, ought to go far. I trust by now you are open to congratulations."

But the dispatch of the mail-team to Elkwan was due to the special orders from Montreal headquarters which accompanied a letter addressed in typewriting to Major Garth Guthrie. Curious of the reason prompting the unknown writer to the haste and expense of an express packet down the Missinabi and up the coast in mid-winter, Garth opened the letter in the handwriting of his brother, which ran:

"Dear Old Garth:

"If you will accept my deep apologies, I will be a happy man. I have learned that Quarrier had personal reasons for wishing to injure you. At the time I believed him—thought you had cut loose from us, were unfair to Ethel. But I have received a long letter from Fort Albany, from Quarrier's sister, which is corroborated by Cameron, the factor, which clears the situation. This Miss Quarrier seems to be a most unusual woman, and Clara—you know Clara—well, she has a surmise."

"The Hudson's Bay people have told me of your marked success this winter, for which my congratulations. A Guthrie has a nose for business. Best wishes, my boy, but if you will come back to us, greater opportunities await you here. By the way, you may be interested to hear that Ethel married Sir Hubert Quayle, president of the Quayle Mines, last week. Clara is furious. She sends her best love."

"Affectionately,

"CHARLES."

Hurrying to his quarters with Shot at his heels, Garth thrust the letter into Joan's hand. He watched her color deepen as her dark eyes lit with her joy for him.

"Oh, I'm so glad—so glad!" she cried. "They want you back, Garth, want you with them."

"Shall I take Ethel down now? They ought not to be in there—her photographs—a married woman," he teased.

She shrugged her shoulders. "They are decorative, and your walls are bare. Why not leave them there?"

"Bravo, Healer of Wounds! Spoken like a soldier," and he took her in his arms, as the letter fluttered, neglected, to the floor.

"Cameron writes they are sending me next year to take the new post on the island. Is it Montreal in the spring—or our honeymoon on Akimiski?"

She rose and went to his open arms. "The island—The Land across the Water—in sight of which I met that very black sheep, Garth Guthrie—let's spend the summer there, Mr. Exile—alone."

For a space man and girl stood, lost in their happiness, then a wistful whine, the protest of two hairy paws, in silent demurrer to his heartless exclusion, waked them.

On his hind feet, nose to her shoulder, she impulsively drew the dog to her. "What would this family be without our Shotty?" And Garth's long arms circled girl and alredead, the two living things he held most dear.

[THE END.]

One thing you like about a polt man—you are not in fear of him.

Gift of Golden Eagle to Yellowstone Park

A large golden eagle, a bird even more fine and majestic than the bald eagle shown on the American coat-of-arms, has been presented to Yellowstone National park by Harry E. Boughers of Fort Wayne, Ind. Mr. Boughers found the eagle with its wing injured, apparently by gunshot, and kept it several weeks until its wound was healed. Anxious that the bird should not be exposed to any more pot shots in a densely populated region, he sent it out to the park at his own expense, requesting that it be kept and fed well for a short time and then released to find its own home in the mountains.

Yellowstone National park has frequently figured as the source of donations of such animals as bison and elk, but this is one of the few cases on record where the process has been reversed. This is at least partly due to the fact that the national park service has steadily adhered to a policy of refusing to introduce animals or plants not native to the region.

Gamekeeper's Find

A gamekeeper near Aberdeen, Scotland, has had a remarkable experience among foxes.

He discovered the lair of a fox among the heather, and after a good deal of hunting succeeded in trapping the old pair. A few days later he found on the ledge of a rock near the den five young fox cubs.

It chanced that he had at home a cat with kittens the same age as the cubs, so he took two of them home and placed them beside the mother cat. She took kindly to her common enemy, and cared for them. The young cubs have become quite friendly with the kittens, and the cat is proving an excellent foster mother.

His Decision

"Hooraw! Hooraw!" suddenly shouted Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "Glory halleluoy!"

"Now what's the matter with you?" asked his wife.

"I was reading along and didn't find anything interesting for quite a spell and was about to fling the paper down when I ran onto the account of a last chance sale of Shakespeare's books—if I don't buy 'em now I'll never get another chance!"

"Well, what about it?"

"I hain't a-going to buy 'em; that's all."—Kansas City Star.

Robin Knows Its Home

Some time ago Nature Magazine recorded the fact of an albino robin being annually a resident of Annapolis. Maj. John D. Marston calls attention to the report that this faithful citizen returned to Annapolis this year for the fifth consecutive time.

Grandmother Knew

there was nothing so good for congestion and colds as mustard. But the old-fashioned mustard plaster burned and blistered.

Musterole gives the relief and help that mustard plasters gave, without the plaster and without the blister.

It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Gently rub it in. See how quickly the pain disappears.

Try Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

Biggest Artificial Lake

The world's largest artificial lake—whose water is to produce electric power in Alabama—will soon be formed. A dam 200 feet high and 2,000 feet long on the Tallapoosa river about twenty miles from Birmingham is backing up water for the new Lake Martin which will be 63 miles long and impound three times as much water as is walled up by the great Muscle Shoals dam. The project cost about $20,000,000 but the demand of the South for more electric power is expected to more than justify the cost.

Embarrassing Position Experienced By Bronx Lady

Miss Jeanne Ginsberg, Bronx, N. Y., writes: "I had become accustomed to arising each day with a heavy head, dizzy and bad taste in my mouth. My bowels were frequently clogged and constipated. One day I became so sick to my stomach I had to leave an important job and go home. A friend advised me to take CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS. I feel greatly relieved since using them and whenever my stomach and head goes bad again I'll certainly know what to do."

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are sugar coated, small, easy to swallow, purely vegetable, and relieve the bowels free from pain. They tonic the system as they are purely vegetable and do not contain Mercury, Calomel or other poisonous drugs.

TINLEY PARK

Mrs. Christ Boerner passed away last Wednesday. Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon from the Zion Lutheran church, Rev. A. Buddenhagen officiating. Burial in the Tinley Park cemetery. She is survived by her husband, six children, several grand children and a host of friends.

CARD OF THANKS

We extend our heartfelt thanks to our many friends and kindred for their kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. E. Boerner. We especially wish to thank Rev. Alb. Buddenhagen for his comforting sermon and kind words; Mrs. John Boeyer and the Ladies Aid for their songs, and all others who so kindly donated the use of their cars and services.

C. BOERNER AND FAMILY

Mrs. Christ Mager, Jr., is at the Harvey hospital.

A fumble deep in Tinley Park territory paved the way for a 6 to 0 win for Oak Lawn in Sunday's football game at Oak Lawn. This mishap occurred late in the third quarter and spoiled a perfect exhibition of two evenly balanced teams, perhaps the two outstanding teams in Southern Cook county.

Sunday Tinley Park will close its football season at Palos Park. These two teams fought a 6 to 6 tie here three weeks ago and are anxious to see who will keep their title clear. Weather permitting, it will be a closely contested game.

Mrs. Alice Anderson's birthday was to have been celebrated Saturday night, but owing to illness in the home it has been postponed until a later date.

Mrs. Gotham entertained the Smiling thru club on Thursday.

The Garden club met in the Gift Shop on Friday to arrange for the Christmas eve ceremony when "Carols" will be sung by the club members and community.

At the last business meeting of the P. T. A. $50 was voted to be used for the purpose of books for the school library.

Little Marion Funk entertained the sewing club at her home. All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy the old saying says, so after the sewing was done the guests played bunco with lovely prizes awarded to the winners. Refreshments were also served. All had a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Swisher entertained Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Davis of Downers Grove at dinner Sunday.

The Midlothian Woman's Club bazaar and dinner last week was a social and financial success. Those seen from Tinley in attendance at the dinner were Bert Fulton and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rice, Mrs. Wm Funk and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Combs.

The passing away of Mrs. J. C. Sauer was a shock to those of her acquaintances who did not know she had been suffering for some time past with cancer. Mrs. Sauer was buried from the 41 Cottage Grove Avenue Chapel on Friday.

Mrs. Mesenbrink was a guest at the home of her sister in Chicago who entertained at bunco and cards on Wednesday of last week.

The bazaar and dinner given by the members of the Bachelor Grove Lutheran church at the Saenger hall last week was a wonderful success. The attendance was good even though the day was cold. They had lots of lovely things on sale and a wonderful dinner was served.

Little Shirley Anderson has a case of chicken pox. The Leonard Fulton children are in quarantine with chicken pox too.

TINLEY PARK M. E. CHURCH

Rev. J. Lee Chaney, Pastor
Worship has been one of the outstanding characteristics of the human race since the beginning of time.

The earliest account we have of primitive man records him with a premature conception of the Divine Father, but at the same time with all the powers of the soul giving expression in reverence and awe for the God who gave him existence in the world.

For the purpose of worship, men have erected altars, built churches and constructed cathedrals.

Man's spiritual nature seeks to express itself in terms of obedience to and in love and reverence for his Divine Creator.

This larger nature of man cannot be satisfied with the mere material things of life. His finer and better self naturally reaches out after God.

This finer nature of man can best be satisfied in the place of worship, where the individual comes into contact with the church hymns, the prayers of the people and the sermon, all of which combine to bring one into communion with the Infinite and which results in the creation of an atmosphere that enriches the lives of all those who are present.

To this end the church eagerly looks forward. May we have your co-operation in making it what it should be. You may contribute to this end by your regular attendance, your prayers and by boosting all the services of the church. You will always find a friendly welcome at the Tinley Park Methodist church.

Sunday school at 10 a. m. Mrs. H. W. Wyman, Supt. Preaching at 11 a. m.

Mrs. C. Andres, wife of Postmaster Andres, underwent a serious operation for removal of gall stones at the Harvey hospital Tuesday.

Mrs. J. Schafer is taking treatments at the Harvey hospital.

Mrs. Louise Hermesmyer and little son returned from the Harvey hospital Wednesday.

The Emmanuel Lutheran church at Sedan Prairie was the scene of a pretty wedding last Sunday afternoon when Miss Rose Leuring of Matteson and Herman Wille of Tinley Park were united in marriage. The service took place at two o'clock and was solemnized by Rev. Mr. Heiber.

The bride wore a white satin gown and long veil of real lace, and carried a bridal bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and white roses.

Miss Eddna Luering of Matteson was maid of honor. She wore a peach colored dress and carried American beauty roses. The bridesmaids were Leanne Claussen and Edna Schram of Chicago Heights. They carried pink roses. The flower girls were Esther Stadel of Monee, and Dollie Rutberg of Tinley Park. The groom was attended by Elvin Wille and Elmer Knierien, both of Tinley Park.

After the marriage there was a reception at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. August H. Wille at Tinley Park. A wedding supper was served to about 200 of their friends and relatives. The young couple will make their home at Matteson.

MOKENA

Mrs. Lizzie Moriarity left Sunday for Lynn Haven, Florida to spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. Sadie Barbor.

The big poultry drawing at Peter Michelsen's place Saturday night drew a very big crowd, not only from here but from surrounding towns and Chicago. Many of the guests remained until the early hours of Sunday morning.

Mrs. Smith, son Chas. and her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ebert and sons Jack and Ned of Oak Park accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Fred Warning of Frankfort to Plainfield Sunday where they visited at the home of Chas. Hanson.

Mr. George J. Hacker, who has been living in the Brookwood subdivision in New Lenox, moved back in his home in Mokena the past week.

Mrs. Chas. Olson who has been ill is much improved and getting along nicely.

The driveway around St. Mary's church has been greatly improved with a top dressing of crushed stone.

A bunco party will be held at the St. Mary Hall on Friday night.

Martie and Homerding held a poultry drawing on Tuesday night and drew a big crowd.

Thomas Homerding is making repairs on his place recently bought of Mrs. Chas. Groth.

The Village board will meet in monthly session next Wednesday night.

A Thanksgiving program was held at the Mokena school Wednesday afternoon. A party was held in the first room and refreshments were served.

day afternoon. A party was held in the first room and refreshments were served.

Mrs. Christ Yunker who has been staying in Tinley Park with her daughter, Mrs. V. H. Scheer, has returned to her home.

George Barnes has taken up a job as fireman on a Rock Island switch engine at the Blue Island yards.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES

Glen T. Beaty, Pastor
Sunday School 10:30 A. M. Evening Worship 7:00 p. m.

Next Sunday the pastor will preach another of his sermons on: "Unknown Books of the Bible." This theme will be "Jeremiah, the Man Who Found Authority."

Our bazaar was well attended and proved profitable to us, tho at this writing the exact amount cleared cannot be stated. We wish to thank all who helped in any way whatsoever to make the affair one of such success.

Plans are pushing steadily forward toward the greatest series of meetings that have been held in Mokena for a long time, in celebration of the 60th anniversary of the dedication of our building.

The 500 Club members were entertained at the home of Mrs. O. F. McGovney last Wednesday. Prizes were won by Mrs. Mabel McGovney, Mrs. John Walsh, and Mrs. Herman Schweser.

George Perryman former manager of the Mokena A. & P. store has moved to Hinckley, Ill.

Mrs. Joiner of Palatine has been visiting with her daughter, Mrs. W. Lathrop.
